Template Tags/trackback rdf

Description

Outputs the trackback RDF information for a post. This tag must be within The Loop.

This information is not displayed in a browser. Its use is partly intended for auto-detection of the trackback URI to a post, which can be "trackbacked" by some blogging and RDF tools. Include this tag in your template if you want to enable auto-discovery of the trackback URI for a post. Without it, people who wish to send a trackback to one of your posts will have to manually search for the trackback URI.

Usage

```
<?php trackback_rdf(); ?>
```

Example

Displays the RDF information before the end of The Loop. You should wrap the tag in an HTML comment tag, to avoid issues with validation.

```
<!--
<?php trackback_rdf(); ?>
-->

<?php endforeach; else: ?>
```

Parameters

This tag has no parameters.
